

BOOKSELLER INFORMATION · OUT NOW

Home Planet

A novel by Tiffany Nieslanik

Her mission was to find humanity a future. Instead, she may have to decide whether humanity deserves one.

Science Fiction · Atmosphere Press · September 15, 2026 · 432 pages

> "Home Planet is brilliant science fiction, and Nieslanik has a wonderful way of making technology feel natural aboard the Elpis […] readers who enjoy character-led science fiction will adore this."
> Readers' Favorite

ABOUT THE BOOK

Three days before astronaut Bryn launches on a solo mission to explore Caerus, a distant, habitable planet that may be Earth's last hope, she discovers she is pregnant. If Star Force V finds out, she could lose the mission she has spent her life training for. So Bryn keeps the secret and leaves behind her husband and an overcrowded planet running out of time.

But space brings truths Bryn was never meant to know. Her body begins to change, the ship's AI becomes her only ally, and the people who sent her into the stars may have been hiding the real reason she was chosen.

Propulsive, intimate, and full of wonder, Home Planet is a story of identity, motherhood, power, and one woman's fight to protect the people, and planets, she loves.

FOR READERS OF

The Long Way to a Small, Angry Planet by Becky Chambers

The Martian by Andy Weir

The Sparrow by Mary Doria Russell

PRAISE

"A powerful saga of transitions and hope which imparts an uncommon flavor of women's strengths into an ultimately uplifting saga, driven by an especially appealing character."
Midwest Book Review

BOOK DETAILS

Paperback	979-8-9017-4385-0 · $21.99
Hardcover	979-8-9017-4597-7 · $34.99
eBook	979-8-9017-4596-0 · $8.99
Trim	5.5 × 8.5 in · 432 pp
Publisher	Atmosphere Press

HOW TO ORDER

Through Ingram
55% discount
Non-returnable. Best for regular stock.

Signed copies, direct from the author
40% off list
3-copy minimum · Net 30 · Shipping at cost.

Colorado stores: consignment
No upfront cost. 60/40 split, settled quarterly.

Order form: theladyhawk.com/booksellers

A COLORADO AUTHOR

Tiffany Nieslanik is a Denver writer and science journalist (National Geographic, Business Insider), and winner of the 2026 Colorado Authors' Hall of Fame Aspiring Author Scholarship.

EVENTS

Available for in-store readings, signings, panels and book club nights. Upcoming: signing at Boulder Bookstore, March 11, 2027. Book club discussion guide available.

tiffany@theladyhawk.com · theladyhawk.com/booksellers · Instagram @tiffanynwrites